

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

INDEX

TO THE

HUNDRED AND FIRST VOLUME

OF THE

North American Review.

---

- Alcott*, Louisa M., Moods, critical notice of, 276 - 281.
- American Ephemeris and Nautical Almanac*, article on, 134 - 146 — importance to navigators of astronomical guides, 134, 135 — Royal Observatory and English Nautical Almanac, 135, 136 — progress of astronomy aided by this publication, 137, 138 — the French Observatory and Almanac, 138, 139 — report of British Astronomical Society, 139, 140 — United States Coast Survey, 141 — American Ephemeris, British opinion of it, 141, 142 — superiority of its lunar tables, 143 - 145 — individual character of the several Nautical Almanacs, 146.
- American Political Ideas*, article on, 550 - 566 — the American Republic has no parallel among political organizations, 550 — just confidence in the principles on which it is founded, 551 — importance of investigation of political ideas original in America, 552 — character of the American Colonies, 552 — new application of ideas to practical politics, 552, 553 — the "people" of the Colonies, 554, 555 — the people constitute the United States, 555 — nature of the "State," 555, 556 — the idea of sovereignty in American politics, 556, 557 — nature of government, 557, 558 — recapitulation of American political principles, 559 — importance of discovery of the fact that civil order may exist without governmental institutions, 559 — two controlling agencies in the state, governmental and extra-governmental, 559, 560 — their relations, 560 — functions of extra-governmental organization, 561, 562 — quality of our political system, 562, 563 — the most vital fact of American politics the subordination of government to the moral order of the community, 563 — principles on which this moral order rests, 563 — these principles called in question by the Rebellion, 563 — our system embodies moral ideas, 563 — such ideas immutable, 563 — their application constantly changing, 564 — the late war one of ideas, 564 — consequences of this fact, 564 — our present duty toward the Southern people, 564 - 566.
- Arnold*, Matthew, Essays in Criticism, critical notice of, 206 - 213.
- Atkinson*, William P., Classical and Scientific Studies, critical notice of, 578 - 584.
- Baxley*, H. Willis, What I saw on the West Coast of South and North America, critical notice of, 622 - 624.
- Belligerent War-Vessels in Neutral Ports*, article on, 474 - 514 — international law, its nature and sources, 474 - 476 — the Declaration of Paris, 477, 478 — conduct of the Netherlands, 478 — former practice of nations with reference to neutrals, 479 — position of the United States in the Anglo-French war of 1793, the case of Henfield, 480 - 483 — Foreign Enlistment Act, 483, 484 — the Queen's Proclamation, 484, 485 — case of the Alabama, and diplomatic correspondence, 485 - 487 — correspondence of Jefferson and Genet, 487, 488 — Portuguese claims, 488 - 490 — the right of neutrals to build and sell armed vessels, 491 - 493 — case of Irresistible, 496, 497 — law of the United States as to seizures, 498 — extent of neutral jurisdiction, 496, 501 — prizes in neutral waters, of the Tuscaloosa, 502, 503 — supply of coal by neutrals, 503, 504 — repairs in neutral ports, 504, 505 — shipment of British subjects on the Kearsarge, 505, 506 — seizure of prizes in neutral waters, cases of the Florida and General Armstrong, 506 - 509 — cases of the Sumter and Japan, diplomatic correspondence, 510 - 514 — whether England did her duty in the case of Rebel privateers, 514.
- Benton*, Thomas Hart, his Thirty Years' View, referred to, 379 - 434.

- Brackett*, Albert G., History of the United States Cavalry, critical notice of, 611, 612.
- Bright*, John, Speeches on the American Question, critical notice of, 569 - 572.
- Burke*, Right Hon. Edmund, Works of, notice of new edition of, 624, 625.
- Burrows*, Montagu, his Pass and Class, referred to, 515 - 527.
- Calhoun*, John C., article on, 379 - 434 — ancestors of Calhoun, 379 - 383 — his early education, 383, 384 — at Yale College and Litchfield Law School, 384 - 386 — Leopard and Chesapeake, 386, 387 — in the Legislature, 388, 389 — his first speech, 389 — his first session in Congress, 390 - 392 — Commodore Stewart's testimony, 392, 393 — Calhoun's advocacy of the protective tariff and internal improvements, 394 - 398 — Webster, Clay, Calhoun, 398 - 400 — Calhoun as Secretary of War, 400 - 403 — his quarrel with Jackson, 403, 404 — he becomes Vice-President, 404, 405 — feeling of South Carolina in 1824, and his course with reference to it, 407, 408 — the first act directly tending to sectional war was his, 408 — passage of the tariff act, and Calhoun's "Exposition," 409 - 414 — Van Buren and Calhoun, 414 - 416 — Miss Martineau's impressions of him, 417 - 419 — the last fifteen years of his life, 419 - 421 — his Treatise on the Nature of Government, 421 - 432 — the character of Calhoun, 432 - 434.
- Carlyle*, Thomas, his translation of Wilhelm Meister, critical notice of, 281 - 285.
- Cartier*, Jacques, Voyage au Canada en 1534, Michelant's edition of his, critical notice of, 628.
- Chicago Freedmen's Bulletin*, referred to, 528 - 549.
- Collection De Vries*, Series of Text-Books in the Modern Languages, critical notice of, 302, 303.
- Cralle*, Richard K., his Works of Calhoun, referred to, 379 - 434.
- Day*, Horace H., his Testimony in the case of Goodyear referred to, 65 - 102.
- Democracy*, the Democratic View of, article on, 103 - 133 — practical character of our democracy, 103 — its peculiar defects, and their causes, 103, 104 — Greek philosophers and Roman jurists, 104, 105 — the Baconian theory of political inquiry, Hobbes and Rousseau, 105 - 107 — society grew and was not made, groundlessness of the "social compact" theory, 107 — growth of the doctrine of equality, natural and inalienable rights, 108, 109 — right of franchise, tendency to make it personal and unqualified, 109 - 112 — the voter a trustee for the community, 113, 114 — tendency to discriminate in favor of the "poor," 115, 116 — enfranchising the slaves, the test of fitness, 116 - 119 — franchise a means of education, 119, 120 — political parties before the war, 120, 121 — the prizes of political victory, and their distribution, 121 - 125 — "natural force" of the nation, as exhibited in the past, 125 - 127 — pulpit and press on politics, 127 - 130 — the French and English press, 131, 132 — journalism as it should be, 132, 133.
- Derby*, Edward, Earl of, his Homer's Iliad, critical notice of, 303 - 310.
- Dexter*, Henry M., his Congregationalism, critical notice of, 573 - 578.
- Downing*, A. J., his Theory and Practice of Landscape Gardening, critical notice of, 629.
- Draper*, John W., his Thoughts on the Future Civil Policy of America, critical notice of, 589 - 597.
- Dutton*, Rev. Dr. S. W. S., his Discourse on the Life of Charles Goodyear, referred to, 65 - 102.
- English University Education*, article on, 515 - 527 — Mr. Everett's book, 515 - 517 — the university system nearly unchanged since its foundation, 517 - 519 — competitive examination and its consequences, 519 - 522 — monopoly of classical studies at the English universities, 522 - 523 — Dr. Whewell's views, 523, 524 — Prof. Goldwin Smith's, 525, 526.
- Everett*, William, his On the Cam, referred to, 515 - 527.
- Exports*, Duties on, article on, 147 - 162 — the least burdensome tax to be sought, 147 — Constitution does not prohibit an export tax, 147 - 150 — discussion of the prohibitory clause in the Constitutional Convention, 150, 151 — power of Congress to tax unlimited, the mode of exercise only qualified, 153 — if the clause were prohibitory it would nullify that which confers unlimited power to tax, 153 — origin of the clause in question, 154 - 157 — the design of framers of the Constitution with reference to taxation, 157 — what is not authority on this question, 158, 159 — Judge Story's opinion, 159, 160 — circumstances or opinions of the framers of the Constitution not binding on us, 163, 164.
- Faith and Science*, article on, 335 - 378 — the spiritualist and materialistic hypotheses in regard to man's being examined, 335 - 340 — Platonian and Aristotelian controversy as to meaning of general terms, realism and nominalism, 341 - 344 — how to reconcile Nature and spirit, the present controversy, 344 — the reality of Nature, 345 - 352 — what Nature is, 352 - 354 — all natural existence made up of two movements, generic and specific, 354 — the absolute being of things distinguished from their phenomenal consciousness, 355 - 360 —

- Nature gives man the latter, not the former, 360 — religious and philosophical hypotheses alike vicious, and why, 360, 361 — the being of Nature involved in man, not vice versa, 362, 363 — how Nature evolves man, 363, 364 — how human nature arrests the development of lower natures, 364 — 369 — every cosmogony must start from man, 369, 370 — Science the enemy of the supernatural, 370 — 372 — the two ways of postulating the Divine existence, 372 — what Science is doing for Faith, 373 — demands of the sentiment of human society, 373, 374 — living Faith and living Science impossible while Nature is viewed in the light of prevalent rationalistic habits of thought, 374 — 376 — Revelation the only explanation of Nature, 376 — 378 — what Nature does for us, 378.
- Freedmen at Port Royal*, The, article on, 1 — 28 — the immaturity of the slave, 1, 2 — mental development of the freedman, 2 — 4 — affectional nature of the negro, 4 — 7 — his avoidance of responsibility the secret of his weakness, 7, 8 — slavery founded on and sustained by ignorance, 8, 9 — religious characteristics of the slave, 9 — 11 — the negro's vices not of the man, but of the slave, how they are encouraged, 11 — 14 — condition of the freedmen when freedom came to them, 14, 15 — ignorance of the negroes as to their own status, 16 — their first lesson and its results, 17 — 19 — is emancipation a success? 19, 20 — charges against the negro examined, his self-supporting ability and his respect for law discussed, 20 — 25 — guaranties for his good citizenship, 25 — changes worked by freedom, 25 — 27 — his final attainment of all the attributes and honors of manhood predicted, 28.
- Freedmen*, The Education of the, article on, 528 — 549 — religion, education, self-defence, and self-government must be granted to the freedmen simultaneously, 528, 529 — freedmen's aid societies, 529, 530 — statistics of schools, 531, 532 — avidity and ability of the freedmen to learn, testimony of teachers, 532 — 536 — Mrs. Brice, 537 — readiness of the freedmen to support schools, 537, 538 — freedom teaches men how to be free, 539, 540 — the freedmen as planters, 540 — 542 — what freedom does and does not do, 542, 543 — the negro and self-government, 543 — 545 — all his privileges depends on his right to defend them, 545 — 547 — results of the efforts to elevate the negro, 547 — 549.
- Freedmen's Bureau*, General Orders of, referred to, 528 — 549.
- Freedmen's Record*, referred to, 528 — 549.
- Freeman*, Edward A., his History of Federal Government, critical notice of, 612 — 619.
- Gayworthys*, The, critical notice of, 619 — 622.
- Gillett*, E. H., his Life and Times of John Huss, second critical notice of, 218 — 223.
- Gillmore*, Quincy A., his Engineer and Artillery Operations, critical notice of, 241 — 245.
- Goodwin*, Daniel C., his Southern Slavery in its Present Aspects, critical notice of, 245 — 249.
- Goodyear*, Charles, article on, 65 — 102 — a book made of India-rubber, 65 — anecdote of Webster, 66 — history of India-rubber manufacture, 68 — 71 — how Goodyear's attention was drawn to it, 71 — 74 — experiments and failures, 74 — 78 — India-rubber mail-bags, 80 — other experiments, and success at last, 81 — 83 — abject poverty and a generous friend, 85 — 89 — worth of his invention to mankind, 90 — 92 — some of the uses of India-rubber, 95 — 97 — practical appropriation of Goodyear's invention, 97, 98 — his visit to Europe, 98, 99 — return and death, 99, 100 — extension of his patents, 101 — statistics, 101, 102.
- Goodyear*, Charles, his Gum Elastic and its Varieties, referred to, 65 — 102.
- Goodyear*, Charles, Jr., his Application for Extension of Goodyear's Patent, referred to, 65 — 102.
- Greenl*, George W., his Historical View of the American Revolution, critical notice of, 256 — 258.
- Grout*, Rev. Lewis, his Zulu-Land, critical notice of, 274 — 276.
- Haldeman*, S. S., his Affixes, critical notice of, 584 — 587.
- Hall*, Charles Francis, his Arctic Researches, critical notice of, 272 — 274.
- Hedge*, Frederick Henry, his Reason in Religion, critical notice of, 288 — 291.
- Hilton*, David, his Brigandage in South Italy, referred to, 162 — 189.
- Holt*, Joseph, his Decision in the Goodyear Patent Case, referred to, 65 — 102.
- Indian Tribes*, Manners and Customs of Primitive Tribes, The, article on, 28 — 64 trustworthiness of Jesuit narratives, 28 — Indian tribes in 1620, the Algonquins, Iroquois, and Hurons, 29 — 33 — domestic life of the Hurons, 34 — 36 — their forts, knowledge of agriculture and the arts of life, 36 — 39 — female life, 39 — 41 — occupations of the men, 41 — feasts and dances, 42 — 46 — intellectual superiority of the Iroquois, 46 — the Tionnontates, Attiwandarons, Andastes, Eries, and Iroquois of New York, 47 — 50 — Indian government and rules of etiquette, 50 — 52 — clan-ship, 52, 53 — national organization of the Hurons, 54 — of the Iroquois, 55 — 60 — training of politicians, 60 — punishment of crime, 60, 61 — military organization of the Iroquois,

- 62 — incongruity in their political system, 63 — the system of adoption, 64.
- Is the Study of Language a Physical Science?* article on, 434 — 474 — philology at the beginning of the present century, 434 — 436 — importance of fixing the status of linguistic science, 436, 437 — how we gained and how we hold our language, 438 — 442 — local varieties of English, 442 — universal command of the language impossible, 445, 446 — what the English language is, 445, 446 — it lives by tradition, 446, 447 — all languages have a similar origin, growth, and tenure of existence, 447, 448 — the transmission of speech, 448, 449 — the modes of change which make the growth of a language, 449 — illustrations, 450, 451 — generation of grammatical forms, 451, 452 — agencies which destroy language, 452, 453 — in practice etymology is postponed to convenience, illustrations, 455, 456 — the part and powers of the linguistic student, 457, 458 — the assumption that language has inherent vitality baseless, 458, 459 — opinions of Schleicher and Müller, 459, 460 — illustrations of individual influence in the language, 461 — usage makes language, 463 — 465 — grammatical and phonetic changes, 465, 466 — all creations or alterations of human speech are the work of individuals, 468 — parallelism between races of men and languages, 469, 470 — other analogies, 470 — 472 — attempt to restrict the title of science, 473, 474.
- Italian Brigandage*, article on, 162 — 189 — romantic view of brigandage, 162 — 165 — traits of Neapolitan character, 165 — 167 — facts which favor brigandage, 168, 169 — friendship between the people and the robbers, 169 — 171 — possible cures for the evil, 171, 172 — works of Marc Monnier, Saint-Jorioz, and Hilton, 172 — 175 — brigandage in the Parthenopean Republic, 176 — Joseph Bonaparte and Fra Diavolo, 177, 178 — Colonel Manhés and his campaigns, 179 — 182 — Ferdinand's war against the brigands, 182, 183 — reactionary brigandage, 184 — the insurrection of Melfi, 185, 186 — brigandage at present inspired by the party of the Pope and Francis II., 186 — insignificance of the brigand forces, 187 — policy of the government, 187 — the future of the Neapolitans, 188, 189.
- Jefferson*, the Political Opinions of, article on, 313 — 335 — the real difference between our history and condition and those of other nations is social and political, 313, 314 — Jefferson in the character of a party leader, 315 — three subjects which, as a statesman, he dealt with, 316 — the Federal Constitution not original with the Convention; how it was constructed, 316, 317 — Jefferson's residence in France, and how it affected his opinions, 318, 319 — his return home, and the state of political opinion there, 319 — 322 — he organized the first opposition to the administration, and some consequences of his success, 322 — 324 — opinion that he was the author of the States' rights doctrine erroneous, 324, 325 — the Jeffersonian system as set forth in the Resolutions of 1798, 325 — he held to no political system as of universal applicability, 326 — the purchase of Louisiana, 326, 327 — his foresight of possible attempts at disunion, 327, 328 — his opinions on slavery, 328, 329 — his general views of the science of government, 330, 331 — origin of his philosophical system, 331, 332 — concluding reflections, 333 — 335.
- Jesuits*, their Relations of the Missions in New France, referred to, 28 — 64.
- Jomini*, Baron de, Treatise on Military Operations, critical notice of, 223 — 227.
- Kingsley*, Henry, his Hillyars and Burtons, critical notice of, 293 — 299.
- Maine*, Henry Sumner, his Ancient Law, referred to, 103 — 133.
- March*, Francis A., his Methods of Philological Study, critical notice of, 587, 588.
- Martineau*, Harriet, her Retrospect of Northern Travels, referred to, 379 — 434.
- Merivale*, Charles, his History of the Romans under the Empire, critical notice of, 228 — 237.
- Merivale*, Charles, his Conversion of the Roman Empire, critical notice of, 608 — 610.
- Messages* of the President to Congress, referred to, 474 — 514.
- Michelant*, M. H., his Voyage of Jacques Cartier to Canada, critical notice of, 628.
- Militia* of the United States, The, critical notice of, 259 — 261.
- Mill*, John Stuart, his Considerations on Representative Government, referred to, 103 — 133.
- Monnier*, Marco, his Historical Documentary Account of Brigandage, referred to, 162 — 189.
- Moore*, Frank, his Speeches of Andrew Johnson, critical notice of, 565 — 569.
- Moore*, Frank, his Rebellion Record, referred to, 190 — 205.
- Müller*, Max, his Lectures on the Science of Language, referred to, 434 — 474.
- National Freedman*, The, referred to, 528 — 549.
- National Freedmen's Relief Association*, Reports of the, referred to, 528 — 549.
- National Review*, Vol. II., referred to, 515 — 527.
- New England Freedmen's Aid Society*, Reports of the, referred to, 528 — 549.

- Parkman*, Francis, his France and England in North America, critical notice of, 625 - 628.
- Parton*, James, his Life of Andrew Jackson, referred to, 379 - 434.
- Pennsylvania Freedmen's Bulletin*, the, referred to, 528 - 649.
- Randall*, Henry S., LL.D., his Life of Jefferson referred to, 313 - 335.
- Ritter*, Carl, his Comparative Geography, critical notice of, 267 - 269.
- Robinson*, Edward, D.D., LL.D., his Physical Geography of the Holy Land, critical notice of, 269 - 271.
- Rogers*, James E. T., his Education in Oxford, referred to, 515 - 527.
- Saint-Jorioz*, Conte Alessandro Bianco, his Brigandage in the Pontifical Borders, referred to, 162 - 189.
- Schleicher*, Aug., his Darwinian Theory, and the Science of Language, referred to, 434 - 474.
- Scotch the Snake, or Kill it*, article, 190 - 205 - Americans fail to profit by experience, and why, 190 - how we receive the daily news, 191, 192 - the newspaper and telegraph make a single auditory of the nation, and cherish our distinguishing vivacity of character, 193, 194 - the Rebellion Record, 195 - the motives and manner of the Rebellion, 195 - 197 - independence a secondary consideration with the conspirators, 197 - thoughtlessness of both sections at the beginning of war, cruelty of the South and credulity of the North, 198 - 200 - changes in Northern opinion, 200, 201 - the fruit of our victory, 201, 202 - our duty toward the South, 202 - certain measures supposed to be unconstitutional, 203, 204 - acceptance of the idea of democracy essential to a permanent peace, 204 - conquest without conversion is valueless to us; not freedom from war, but freedom from its causes, is what we fought for, 205.
- Sprague*, William B., D.D., his Annals of the American Pulpit, critical notice of 285 - 288.
- Stewart*, Rev. K. J., his Geography for Beginners, critical notice of, 264 - 266.
- Stone*, William L., his Life of Sir William Johnson, critical notice of, 249 - 256.
- Student's Guide to the University of Cambridge*, The, referred to, 515 - 527.
- Superintendents of Freedmen*, Reports of, referred to, 528 - 549.
- Thoreau*, Henry D., his Letters to Various Persons, critical notice of, 597 - 608.
- Wallace*, Alfred R., his Origin of Human Races, critical notice of, 261 - 263.
- Webster*, Daniel, his Speech in the India-Rubber Case, referred to, 65 - 102.
- Western Freedmen's Association*, Annual Report of the, referred to, 528 - 549.
- White*, Richard Grant, his Works of Shakespeare, critical notice of, 629 - 631.
- Whiting*, William, his War-Powers under the Constitution, critical notice of, 237 - 241.